

See Here, Private Hargrove!

by Marion Hargrove

THIS STORY SO FAR: Private Hargrove, former feature editor of a North Carolina newspaper, has been inducted into the army and is now in his basic training at Fort Bragg. He has been classified as a cook and in addition his future as master chef of the fundamentals of army life have been in considerable detail. He is now in the company kitchen and its workings. He has also learned the finer points of "goldbacking." He is editor of a section of the camp paper. As we pick up the story, Hargrove is entertaining "the Redhead" at dinner. She is having trouble getting the water to bring her a glass of water and Hargrove speaks:

CHAPTER XV

"Ahem," I said. He stopped humming a little tune with which he had engaged himself, and he looked at me with kindly curiosity. "Ahem," I repeated. "Are you the waiter with the water for my daughter?"

He turned on a tight, polite little smile. "The water, monsieur, will be forthcoming. I have sent my friend Charles for the water."

The Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor this afternoon came as stunning news to the men at Fort Bragg. There had been a rumor, one day a couple of months ago, that Germany had declared war on the United States to beat us to the draw, and since it was merely a rumor, there was no confirmation or denial over the radio all day long. That supposed news back then had been taken with a philosophic shrug and the thought, "Well, it's what we've been expecting."

This today caused a different war feeling. It was not what we had been expecting. To the soldiers here, whose only attention to the newspapers is a quick glance at the headlines, it was startling and dreadful.

The men who heard the news announcement over the radio this afternoon at the Service Club were, for the most part, new to the Army, with less than a month of training behind them. Their first feeling of outrage gave way to the awful fear that they would be sent away, green and untrained and helpless, within a week.

The rumor mill began operation immediately. New York and Fort Bragg will be bombed within the month, the rumors said. Probably, by that time, all of us will be in Hawaii or Russia or Persia or Africa. Green and untrained and helpless. This business of teaching a man for thirteen weeks in a replacement center will be dispensed with, now that war is upon us. You're a civilian one day and a rookie member of a seasoned fighting outfit the next.

Except for a few for whom the radio held a terrible fascination, the men thought first of communicating with their families, their friends, their sweethearts. They immediately went for writing materials and for the two public telephones of the club. Almost all of the 64,000 men of Fort Bragg were trying to reach their homes through the eight trunk lines which ran out of the pitifully overburdened little telephone exchange in Fayetteville.

Miss Ethel Walker, who was acting as senior hostess for the Replacement Center's Service Club, had planned an entertainment program for the evening, but when she looked out at the tension in the social hall, she despaired. She telephoned her boss, Major Herston M. Cooper, the special services officer.

"There's no use trying to put on the show tonight," she said. "Shall I cancel it? And may I turn off the radio?"

"It's a good program, keep it," said the major. "And by all means leave the radio on. Just hang on; I'll be there in five minutes."

The major, a former criminologist and schoolteacher in Birmingham, was a lean and intelligent-looking military officer with a gift of gab and a sense of humor with the enlisted men. He answered into the Service Club phone. "It must be that he was going to talk and knock up the wireless microphone."

you can't find it anywhere but here. "You and I both, when we were called into the Army, brought our homes with us. We've been thinking less about war than about getting back home after a while—back to our girls and our wives and our civilian jobs."

"Well, we know now where we stand and we don't have to worry about whether we're in for a long stretch or a short vacation. That should be cleared up now. We know that we've got only one job now and we haven't time to worry about the one at home."

"You're worrying because you're not prepared soldiers, you're not ready to fight yet. When the time comes for you to go, you'll be ready. You'll have your fundamental training before you leave the Replacement Center."

"Spending your duty hours at work and your leisure hours at worry."

"As an enlisted man, I've done more KP than any man in this room," said the major.

—that's no good. That's what the enemy wants for you."

"I guess that's all, boys."

He turned to leave the microphone, but returned as if he had suddenly remembered something.

"The regular variety show will go on tonight at eight o'clock," he said.

They come and they go from the Replacement Center more quickly now, or perhaps it merely seems that they do. The training cycles have not been cut down much, but the turnover of men seems greater. Perhaps it's just that we notice the arrivals and departures more, now that war has given them grimness.

We call the train—the one that brings in recruits and takes out soldiers—the Shanghai Express. The term probably was used first by some disgruntled soldier who put into it the bitterness of a difficult transition from civilian to soldier. Now the term is used with a certain tender fondness by the permanent personnel of the Center, who watch the men come and go.

The melancholy moan of a train whistle is heard in the distance at the night and a sergeant elicits his teeth wistfully. "Here she comes, boys," he says. "Here comes the Shanghai Express." The sound of the whistle identifies all that touches the heart of a soldier.

There was a group of new men coming in this morning, down at the railroad siding. Their new uniforms hung strangely upon them, conspicuous and uncertain and uncomfortable—new uniforms on new soldiers.

They were frightened and ill at ease, these men. A week ago they had been civilians and the prospect of the Army had probably hung over some of them like a Damoclean sword. They had been told, by well-meaning friends, that the Army wouldn't be so bad once they got used to it. The Army will make you or break you. They had been told. The Army really isn't as bad as it's painted, they had heard. All of this, in a diabolically suggestive way, had opened conjectures to terrify the most indomitable.

This morning, they still hadn't had time to get over their fears. They still had no idea of what Army life was going to be like. Most of all and first of all, they wondered: "What sort of place is this we're coming into?"

Their spirits were still at their lowest point—part, present, or future.

The Replacement Center band, led by wizened little Master Sergeant Knowles, was there to greet them with a welcome that might dispel from them the feeling that they were cattle being shipped into the fort on a consignment. First there were the conventional but stirring military marches, the "Calson Song" and all the rest. And then there was a sly and corny rendition of the "Tiger Rag," a friendly musical wink that said, "Take it easy, brother."

Just as their arrival marks an emotional ebb, their departure is the flood tide. The men who came in a few weeks ago, green and terrified, leave now as soldiers. The corporal whom they dreaded then is now just a jerk who's bucking for sergeant. Although they are glad that they have been trained with other men on the same level here, the training center which was first a vast and awful place is now just a training center, all right in its way—for rookies. They themselves have outgrown their kindergarten.

The band is at the railroad siding, this time to see them off with a flourish. They pay more attention to the band this time. They know the "Calson Song." They know their own Replacement Center Marching Song, composed by one of their number, a quiet little ex-music teacher named Harvey Bosell. They hum the tune as they go aboard.

They see the commanding general standing on the side lines with his aide. He is no longer an ogre out of Washington who might, for all they know, have the power of life and death over them to administer it at a whim. He is the commanding general, a good soldier and a good fellow, and it was damned white of him to come down to see them off.

They board the train and they sit waiting for it to take them to their permanent Army post and their part in the war.

As a special favor and for old time's sake, the band swings slowly into the song that is the voice of their nostalgia, "The Sidewalks of New York." Yankee or Rebel, Minnesotan or Navadan, they love that song.

You can see their faces tightening a little, and a gentle melancholy look come into their eyes as the trombone wails beneath the current of the music. Their melancholy is melancholy with a shrug now. Home and whatever else was dearest to them a few months ago are still dear, but a soldier has to push them into the background when there's a war to be fought.

With the music still playing, the train pulls slowly out and Sergeant Knowles waves it goodbye with his baton.

An old sergeant, kept in the Replacement Center to train the men whose fathers fought with him a generation ago, stands on the side and watches them with a firm, proud look.

"Give 'em hell, boys," he shouts behind them. "Give 'em hell!"

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Stuffed Eggs Are Colorful in Spanish Sauce (See Recipes Below)

Point Wisdom

There should be some sort of an "E" award for the housewives who go about their business daily, keeping their homes in order and feeding their families nutritious, well-balanced meals in spite of high prices and hiked-up point values.

And to you ladies who rate or would rate the household "E" aren't you finding new respect for foods low in points or which require no points? I wager there's many an egg with a heart of gold that's come to your rescue and lithered-scoured fish that's made a hearty and delicious meal when points have been all used up.

Both eggs and fish are complete proteins, and they are just as important as meat in building and repairing body tissue which is necessary every day. Bath can be combined into just as looked-for dishes as meat and cheese which are rationed.

A word of caution when you cook those precious eggs. Use low temperatures whether you fry, scramble, cook or bake them, otherwise you will have tough, leathery eggs. Cook them carefully, and ah! you will indeed discover how delightful they truly are. Use variety in serving eggs, too, and don't just go through the humdrum monotony of serving them plain boiled, scrambled or fried.

Spanish Eggs on Toast

(Serves 4)
8 stuffed egg halves
4 slices of toast
Spanish sauce

Lay slices of toast on bottom of baking dish. Prepare Hot Stuffed eggs as suggested in following recipe and arrange eggs on top of toast. Pour hot Spanish sauce over and around eggs. Garnish with toast triangles. Serve at once.

Stuffed Eggs

4 hard-cooked eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper or cayenne
3 tablespoons salad dressing
1 teaspoon chopped parsley

Cut eggs in half lengthwise or crosswise. Remove yolks, press through sieve. Add seasonings and dressing. Beat until fluffy and refill egg whites. Top stuffed eggs with buttered crumbs and broil or bake in hot oven about 6 minutes or until crumbs are browned.

Spanish Sauce

Prepare about 3 cups of your favorite tomato sauce and season rather highly. Add 2 tablespoons chopped onion and 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper at the last.

Eggs à la King

(Serves 3 to 4)
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour

Lynn Says: Meat stretchers: Store and cook meat properly for greatest economy. Fresh meat is best stored if wiped with a damp cloth, covered loosely with waxed paper and stored in coldest part of refrigerator.

Variety meats, ground meats and fish should be used 21 hours after purchasing. Ground meat thaws it allowed to stand and spoils more quickly than whole cuts.

Frozen meat keeps indefinitely in the freezing unit. However, after thawing, it spoils more quickly than other meat and should be cooked immediately.

Cooked meats should be covered closely to prevent drying and stored in coldest part of refrigerator. Do not eat, stored or allow until ready to use.

Meats should be cleaned and washed before refrigerating. It keeps better if stored when bathed in liquid.

STYLES OF YESTERYEAR

YOUNGER folks during the bicycling age fifty years ago pedaled two-wheelers, but the oldest ones drove bicycles. And the society women wore leg-a-mutton sleeves with a spectacle of nondescript style hanging from a cord.

How styles have changed, says the Better Vision Institute. Grandma wants an airplane. Smart women want sleek, clinging dresses with no extra pulls. Men and women generally want smart, stylish spectacles that improve their faces.

TRAPPERS SUPPLYING
NEW, VITAL NEED

America's trappers—including the young men and the women who are carrying on for absent sons, brothers and husbands may rightfully smile with pride as they keep the nation's trappers going. For the product of their endeavor, fur, is playing a new role today.

Always valued as a source of warmth and as an article of high fashion and fitting Uncle Sam's Arctic fighters, fur that they may better withstand the rigors of cold. As an example, parka hoods for the uniforms of our air trappers whose production depends upon the output of the country's trappers. Also the fur worn by the men who sail our ships through Northern waters. With increased attention being paid to materials for warm clothing, fur is becoming more and more important to a fighting victory-bound America.

The raw fur crop is here—along the streams, in the woods and fields—staring waiting to be taken. Practically no more effort is required—only some traps and the effort needed to run the trappers. And as for the effort, it is limited to spare time—a feature which fits in beautifully with either school or housewife's daily routine.

Nazis Wreck Northern Italian Ports To Hamper Future Allied Operations; United Nations Formulate Relief Plan; U. S. Issues Current Casualty Figures

Said Hull: "We agreed upon a broad, basic program of international co-operation. The program contemplates the hastening of victory . . . the preservation of peace and the promotion of human welfare . . ."

ITALY:

Destroy Ports

Italy's northern ports of Leghorn and Pescara were blocked by Nazi demolition squads to render them useless to the Allies for future operations, or in the event Gen. Dwight Eisenhower attempted landings above Rome to trap elements of five German divisions holding out in the mountainous country to the south.

Principal action in Italy centered on the Fifth army front, where Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark's mixed British and U. S. forces were edging forward at the mountain passes at Mignano, to gain the long, level valley leading to Rome.

Once General Clark's warriors burst through at Mignano, they still will have to buck elaborate Nazi mountain fortresses further up the valley of Cassino, which stands some 60 miles from Rome. Because Allied troops must clamber up rugged slopes in the face of entrenched enemy machine gunners and mortars, and U. S. artillery must rake whole mountain sides to clear out Nazi posts, progress necessarily is slow.

Fit Italy Into War

To get Italy functioning on the side of the Allies, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower established a control commission headed by Maj. Gen. Bryan Joyce, formerly of the 5th service command.

Purpose of the commission will be to fit the country's agriculture and industry into Allied war plans, and to regulate Italian governmental administration.

To prevent any political party from establishing its hold over the country, the military forces, the commission will control Italy's radio and press.

Following the commission will be the Italian government, and then the Italian people.

RUSSIA:

Attack Last Railroad

Russia's last north-south railway came under the attack of Red troops as they pressed forward on a 70-mile front west of recaptured Kiev. As the Russians drove against the railroad, other forces of their army continued attacks on Kiev, less than 50 miles from the Latvian border in the north, and on Krivoy Rog in the south.

At Krivoy Rog, the Germans continued to hold open an escape corridor for the last columns of Nazi forces pulling out of the huge bend of the Dniester river, where early Russian attacks had threatened them with encirclement.

Crossing into the eastern Crimea from the Caucasus, strong Russian forces drew up for a major attack on the 75,000 German troops reportedly massed in the huge peninsula, guarding the Black sea. The Nazis held their ground at the north entrance to the Crimea.

TIRES:

Continued Shortage

Although production of synthetic rubber is expected to total 818,000 tons in 1944 compared with 233,000 tons this year, only about 30 million tires will be manufactured to meet needs of essential users of cars, light delivery trucks, taxis and farm vehicles. Ordinarily, 50 million tires are made a year.

Tightness in the civilian tire supply will prevail because of military requirements, scarcity of manpower to operate fabricating equipment, reduction in the peace time inventory of tires, shortage of rayon cord for heavy duty tires, and the cut in crude rubber imports.

To obtain maximum use of present tires, the rubber manufacturers' committee counseled drivers to preserve their tire carcasses, or bodies, for reprocessing by protecting the wheels and not running down treads. Further, the committee advised low speeds, adequate oil for tubes, and proper alignment for wheels and axles.

Homemade Penicillin

One of medicine's most precious cures, magical penicillin, is being produced at "five cents a plateful" by Dr. Julius A. Vogel in the kitchen of his Pittsburgh, Pa., residence. Properly equipped, any doctor can grow his own supply, Dr. Vogel says.

Plant physician for the Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation, Vogel has used his penicillin to treat external infections, with complete cures effected in more than a score of cases.

CHILD DELINQUENCY: Supervision Needed

During the last year, delinquency among girls has increased 38 per cent and among boys 11 per cent, Katherine Lenroot, chief of the children's bureau of the department of labor, declared.

With 5½ million women with children under 14 years of age working, and many fathers in service or sleeping drowsy, a general weakening in home supervision is a contributing cause for the delinquency, Miss Lenroot said. More than one million more women will be needed in industry this year, she reported.

Other factors of delinquency, Miss Lenroot asserted, are lack of school facilities in war-expanded communities, and the increase in child labor to five million this year.

"There would be little juvenile delinquency today if children were treated as much of an emergency as armament production," Miss Lenroot concluded.

LEND-LEASE: British Aid

Up to last June 30, British lend-lease assistance to the U. S. totaled $71 million dollars, of which the major share consisted in supplying base facilities, barracks and hospitals for American land and air forces in the United Kingdom. Incomplete figures indicated assistance to date has topped one billion dollars.

Not included in the accounting, the British said, was the cost of food furnished on the fighting fronts where no adequate records could be kept, and the value of information and experience gained in battle and relayed to the U. S. army and industry.

The British assistance does not include lend-lease granted the U. S. by Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India, who operate under separate agreements. On August 22, President Roosevelt reported U. S. lend-lease assistance to British and other allies totaled $4 billion dollars.

U. S. Office of Air Safety Guards Cadets in Training

Accident Statistics Prove Value of Regional Safety Officers' Work; Program Has Three Main Divisions.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

The army air force has been around the world 134,078 times! That is what air miles add up to—three billion, three hundred and fifty-two million in the fiscal year 1943.

Just how safe is the job of a pilot? Not the job where you have to count on the enemy fighters and the ack-ack, but the job of learning to be a pilot.

"Ninety-five out of every hundred army air force cadets are going through their flight training program with no personal injury of any kind," says Col. Sam Harris, chief, army air force office of flying safety.

The office of air safety is the institution which has built safety into training programs as a highly emphasized part of the whole regime. It has three main principles.

Initial Phase

The first is "prevention and investigation," and the keynote here is experience. The 54 officers who take care of this end of the work have a total air experience of 33 years, 318 days in the air. These men, known as regional safety officers (RSOs) are assigned to each air force and command in the United States.

Here is an example of how the RSO works. He goes to a certain field. He meets some cadets who say they haven't had any breakfast. He puts that down in his notes. He looks the place over, notes a ditch parallel to a runway. He orders the ditch filled, talks with the mess officer and has breakfast served earlier. Then he tackles the boys themselves. He gives them a talk on the importance of instruments. Three separate moves and the accidents are cut down there.

The second principle is "flight control." Here is where the flight control officer, traffic cop of the air, comes in. For traffic control is as important in the air as on the street. The men of this force offer a Pilot's Advisory Counsel. This service leads pilots through or around dangerous traffic or weather conditions.

Suppose the flight control officer in the Seattle center knows Lieutenant Smith is headed in that direction. He also knows that a "cold front" is moving across his path. So he radios Smith, tells him to make for an alternate airport.

No. 3 on the list of safeties is "safety education."

Safety Education

Most of the accidents in training in the United States are due to personnel error—the fault of the human being, not the weather or the machine. This education comes through special movies, through manuals, through cartoons and posters.

Here are some of the slogans that help:

"Holler and Hrohlo cheer . . . when you forget your mops . . . when you pay no attention to telephone wires . . . when you jam on your brakes . . . when you don't check your gas . . ."

Other points are driven home with a little sardonic humor such as "when a pilot thinks he's pretty hot, he's usually close to burning." "To grow old in the natural way, a pilot has to use his luck sparingly . . ."

The first six months of 1943 compared with all of 1942, show these percentages of reduction of accidents:

In primary schools 2.3%
In basic schools 3.5%
In advanced schools 11%
And just see the table for accidents as miles flown go up:

1931-30—Miles flown, 153,818,000—accident rate, 2.11.

1943—Miles flown, 3,301,940,000—accident rate, .716.

That's how America is learning safety in the skyways.

War Brings Recognition To Psychiatry

There will be so many changes after the war that a lot of words will not even have the same meanings. New things and new thinking will appear and people will have to learn the new words in order to think the new thoughts.

Already the war has caused psychiatry to be "colloquially recognized," according to Dr. Richard Hulehings, who is the author of "A Psychiatric Word Book" published by the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene and now in its seventh edition.

This is not a book for laymen but it is exceedingly interesting to scan its pages just to see how ordinary words can achieve new meanings as new thoughts about new things develop. The word book is invaluable to the doctor and many others who will be more and more concerned with this important study of interpersonal relations—psychiatry.

Let's take a layman's look at the pages of the little pocket volume. Starting at the beginning with "a-an." Not the simple articles they look! The definition is not new in this case but shows the special meaning the person who reads psychiatry must know. The definition reads:

"Prefixes derived from the Greek and having the same meaning on the prefix un- or the suffix -less. Without; absence of; not. Cf. amnesia, anosmia."

That takes us to omnia which means (1) absence of intellect; (2) a state of mind bordering on stupor; (3) feeble-mindedness.

You have heard of behavior but what is behaviorism? It is "the psychological theory which holds that correct conclusions in psychology must rest upon objective study and interpretation of behavior."

You have also heard of conversion. Here is the psychiatrist's meaning of it. "The process by which an emotional trauma (shot is an emotional 'wound') after repression becomes converted into a physical symptom in hysteria."

Practical Application

If you think that sounds too high brow, just recall the remark: "He's had that quint ever since he saw that terrible accident."

There are a lot more interesting now meanings clear over to the last word "zoopsia" which you know all about if you ever saw "Ten Nights in a Barroom," the great prohibition play. "Zoopsia" is what we (incorrectly) call "D.T.'s." The definition is "a visual hallucination of animals or insects."

The little book also has an appendix in which there are careful and more detailed descriptions of the emotions—anxiety, fear, pride, vanity, etc., which we now know are as dangerous to our mental health when they get out of control as a flock of flu germs ore to our bodily welfare.

I'll give you a definition of the one emotion which is highly important because when it gets the upper hand in politics, it can do as much harm to a form of government as to an individual.

"Egoism and egotism are not synonyms. Egoism is a self-seeking desire to gain advantages at the expense of the rights, convenience or possessions of others. It is essentially antisocial. Egotism is overvaluation of self, one's opinions, ability or cleverness and corresponding undervaluation of others."

Now, just apply that definition of egoism to blocs, political parties, nations and you'll see why psychiatry is important in the new world. The more people who understand it, the more people will understand each other.

The words in "A Psychiatric Word Book" are important words. ($1 postpaid from the Hospitals Press, Mental Hygiene Department, State of New York, Utica, N. Y.)

Popular Questions

Here are answers to three questions I was asked most frequently on a recent trip to the Middle West:

(1) When will the war be over? I don't know. I wouldn't be surprised if Germany cracked inside this winter. At least another year to clean up Japan.

(2) What about international co-operation afterward? I don't know. The feeling I get in Washington is that there will be an honest attempt to form an international league, just as it is suggested in the Moscow conference.

(3) Will President Roosevelt run for a fourth term? I doubt it even he knows that either. He probably will unless the war is done and over.

THE Heavenly Blue pattern around in this bathroom. The thought of such modernity should prompt a man to get out his key hole saw and cut out the lops for the top and bottom of the box cabinet like the blue and white one in the sketch, and should have someone making applique to the window sill is kept from sliding forward by a pair of firmly chanced spools painted to match the frame.

NOTE: Mrs. Wyeth has designed a pattern (No. 207) for all types of scalloped to be used to add a variety of things he can make with the pattern. The Morning Glory pattern (No. 203) contains 10 designs. Send 10 cents for each pattern desired to:

RUBBER

It was not until about 20 years after Columbus set foot on the Americas that we made of rubber. Native rubber articles—play balls, bowls, bottles, hats, shoes and shoes—were brought to Spain and Portugal from the parts of Central and Northern South America where before the commercial use of rubber were realized.

A really growing use of rubber was the use of rubber in the Amazon rubber plantations. The rubber of this plant is the rubber of the rubber plant.

By HOY McCUSKEY

THERE ARE SMILES THAT—
All down through history and legend, men have started wars, have changed kingdoms, have become heroes, have become villains, have fought, bled and died for the sake of a woman's smile. If they were good men they were made better; if they were bad men they were made worse; if they were healthy men they were made stronger and if they were sick men, they were made better. We have no criticism to make of any woman whether she be the wife of a President or a little girl from the top of the mountain, who steps up alongside of a bed, lays her hand on the brow of a wounded soldier and just smiles.

Folks, you're doing a Swell Job

WE WANT to salute the people of this community on their fine response to the appeal for more pulpwood. Every boy in the service will be proud of the way the home folks are backing him up.

This present pulpwood drive is bringing results. It has brought in pulpwood from people who never cut any before. It has been a big help toward meeting the dangerous shortage that threatens our war effort.

The danger is far from over. It will take millions and millions of cords to win the war. There will never be enough to go around — not as long as the shooting lasts.

High Temperatures Shrink Meat More

By ESTHER N. LA ROSE
Home Demonstration Agent

Point this, no wonder poultry is high in demand this year—turkey, chicken and duck, even to the wild game birds which frequent Pocahontas county. It's one thing not to waste a bit of the meat directly, and another to prepare it so that you get the most servings out of it per pound. To conserve food, and fuel, roast a bird in a moderate oven—from start to finish. For a 10 to 12-lb. turkey that means 300 degrees, for 3½ to 4½ hours. For chicken or duck heat your oven to 350 degrees. You can use more heat for these smaller fowls, 5 or 6 pounds, because they cook through more quickly. A chicken this size will cook in 1½ to 2 hours; a duck, from 2 to 2½ hours. Cooking meat of any kind at high temperatures causes undue shrinkage and impairs flavor.

Save all meat, bones, fat, skin, stuffing, and gravy to get full flavor from the bird. Serve chopped left over poultry meat, creamed and hot, on toast, as a pie topped with biscuit crumbs, or with mashed potato, rice, noodles, or spaghetti. For chicken or turkey a la king, give it a richer sauce by adding egg yolks, and perhaps mushrooms and leftover peas.

DID YOU KNOW that it takes some 30,000 pounds of blue-ink-paper to plan and build just one American battleship? That paper grows right in your own wood lot—in the trees Uncle Sam needs. There's a serious shortage of pulpwood, because it's being turned into everything from parachutes to powder. Help us cut more wood—give our boys 3 extra days!

DEEDS
...not words

WE IN AMERICA have a lot to be thankful for this year. This is the one great nation that has not been laid waste by war.

Our boys are fighting in the jungles of the South Seas and in the villages of Italy that our own Main Streets may not become battle fields. By their sacrifices they have held the warfront thousands of miles beyond our shoreline. They deserve our deepest gratitude—a gratitude we should express in work rather than in words.

Let's back up these fighting men in a very practical way. Today there is a great shortage of pulpwood. Pulpwood has a thousand-and-one war uses—from explosives to shipping containers.

And since this is a pulpwood-cutting community, we have been asked to cut an extra cord of pulpwood in honor of every local boy in service.

This is a small thing to ask of us—small in comparison with what our boys are doing. One extra cord for every boy who went to war from the pulpwood areas will be enough to meet the present shortage.

So let's resolve to meet our quota—and make sure that no boy dies because we failed.

LET'S KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK

THIS community has every right to be proud of the way it is meeting the appeal for more pulpwood. We are proving that we can get out the wood. Now let's keep it coming!

This war isn't won yet—not by a long shot. Our boys will be fighting for quite a while. They will be needing ammunition, food, medical supplies—and all these things that are shipped in paperboard containers are made from pulpwood.

Pulpwood is our wartime job. Pulpwood can still be a bottleneck, holding up America's war effort. Our responsibility is to see that it does not. No boy shall die because we have failed.

Kidneys Must Work Well-

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without harming its health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to do their job.

Many, many years ago, a frequent relation sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging, lacerating, lacerating, lacerating, lacerating pains, setting up at night, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will bring a doctor's recommendation to the country over. Doan's Pills will be the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

The DAY

that will live forever in infamy

IT IS just two years since America stood stunned at the unbelievable treachery of that sneak attack. Things looked mighty black for us two years ago. They look a lot brighter now. Today our rebuilt navy—for more powerful than before; our vast air force; and our mechanized army are relentlessly forcing our enemies back on battle-fronts the world's width apart.

Yes, we've come a long way—but the war isn't won yet. There's many a bitter battle yet to be fought.

And there's a production battle right here at home that isn't won yet, either. So long as the fighting goes on over there, there will be no lessening in the demand for pulpwood here.

The Victory Pulpwood Campaign is beginning to succeed. It showed what can be accomplished when America really rolls up its sleeves.

Let's keep the axes swinging!

Let's see this job through!

In Memoriam

Boyer, W. Van.
Dor. 2, 1943.

In memory of my father, Mr. Frank Sawyer, who passed away in 1913:
I have no mother and father now.
I hear the soft wind sighing
Through every bush and tree,
Where now their forms are lying
Away from love and me.
Tears from mine eyes are starting
And sorrow shades my brow;
Oh! woe was our party—
I have no mother and father now.

I see the pale moon shining
Upon the white headstones—
The rose bush round them twining
Is here like me alone
And just like me is weeping;
Those dew drops from the hough
A long time have they been sleeping.
I have no mother and father now.

My heart is every lonely
My life is drear and sad,
Tears their dear presence only
That made my spirit glad;
From morning until even,
Care rests upon my brow,
They are gone from me to heaven,
I have no mother and father now.
Their Daughter
MISS CARRIE RENRODE.

SAVE YOUR HOLDERS.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. If West Virginia hunters want to be sure of having metal holders next year for their hunting licenses they had better save the ones they now have. Conservation Director Jack Ruppman has warned. The commission was able to obtain only part of the number it needed this year, he said, and he believed the situation might be worse next year. If hunters will preserve their present holders for re-use, though, the shortage problem may be met, he stated. The metal used in the holders is an essential in war industry.

Who Owns the Railroads?

BIG BANKERS? With white ribbing on their vests? And heavy loops of gold watch chain?

Guess again! Think of a small brick house in a whole row of brick houses in a large city in Ohio or Illinois. Think of a large stone mansion on a Pennsylvania hillside, a place for old folks to go to when they're left alone in the world. Think of hospitals in Indiana and Wisconsin, colleges in Virginia and Washington, insurance companies in New York, and Massachusetts and Minnesota.

Think of a cross-section of American life. Now you're getting warm. If ever there was a public property—in the sense of widespread ownership—it's our American railroads.

Here are the facts about a typical railroad—the Chesapeake and Ohio.

275,083 shares of its stock are owned by colleges, hospitals, churches, charitable institutions and insurance companies.

40,496 of its common stockholders own 50 shares or less. These represent approximately 70 per cent of the total common stockholders.

These people live in every state of the union and in its territories. They come from nearly every walk of life, and include employees of the road, teachers, lawyers, business men, stenographers, farmers, men in the Army and Navy—people who live "just around the corner" from you.

In some countries the people have not been enterprising enough to build and maintain their own railroads. And the government has had to do it for them. With us the citizen and not the state has been the force behind our railroads. We have preferred the progress that comes from free competition to the stagnation that accompanies political patronage and bureaucracy.

This system has worked. In the face of the greatest emergency ever to strike this country, the railroads of America have proved more able than ever before to meet the task imposed on them. With consideration for their welfare in the future, they will meet post-war tasks in the same way.

In short, the railroads could be in no better hands than in the hands of the American people. For they, in the long run, must be served.

EDITORIAL

WHO WILL MARK YOUR BALLOT
IN 1944?

The important changes and counter-changes, the expressed political aims and ambitions, the portrayals of avowed character and abilities, and the slurs against them which are fast breaking upon the scene in this state and throughout the nation are portentous of the vast responsibility which faces the individual voters of West Virginia, and in fact all America, in 1944.

The fact that these varied phases of political intrigue are being brought to light almost a year ahead of the time for their final decisions when the men and women voters trek to the polls may be an omen or it may be a real break for the people who must make these decisions.

It is perhaps unusual that so far ahead of a primary or general election so many men are either thrusting themselves, or are being thrust, into the political spotlight. It is a symptom of the keen edge of political nerves when leaders of both the Democratic and Republican parties, especially in this state, are sparring with each other and with those in their own ranks, or are busy organizing swelled "harmony" groups to advance political campaigns.

Nearly everyone expects two or more factions of the Democratic party in West Virginia to contend for control of major positions; and current public and private exchanges of letters between prominent members of the Democratic party would give evidence that the same situation exists in other states.

None of these political starts may, however, turn themselves out and end in a matter of their own accord. But in the main, the situation presents a real challenge to the voting public.

I thought this editor to ask the question "WHO WILL MARK YOUR BALLOT IN 1944?"

It is the proponents of a New Deal, a Traditional Democratic Party, a Political Columbia, a Republican Old Guard? Or shall it be Joe Smith, American? Of course it will be YOU who make the mark, but whose hand will guide the pencil?

Now as never before, the trend of American life and the demands which are being made upon our citizens is such as to bid far from every corner of our interest in the political future of the nation. Now, as never before every man and woman must determine himself or herself to a matter of some and to him as an individual in the nation. Now, as never before every man and woman must determine himself or herself to a matter of some and to him as an individual in the nation. Now, as never before every man and woman must determine himself or herself to a matter of some and to him as an individual in the nation.

It is a time when every man and woman must determine himself or herself to a matter of some and to him as an individual in the nation. Now, as never before every man and woman must determine himself or herself to a matter of some and to him as an individual in the nation.

It is a time when every man and woman must determine himself or herself to a matter of some and to him as an individual in the nation. Now, as never before every man and woman must determine himself or herself to a matter of some and to him as an individual in the nation.

It is a time when every man and woman must determine himself or herself to a matter of some and to him as an individual in the nation. Now, as never before every man and woman must determine himself or herself to a matter of some and to him as an individual in the nation.

It is a time when every man and woman must determine himself or herself to a matter of some and to him as an individual in the nation. Now, as never before every man and woman must determine himself or herself to a matter of some and to him as an individual in the nation.

It is a time when every man and woman must determine himself or herself to a matter of some and to him as an individual in the nation. Now, as never before every man and woman must determine himself or herself to a matter of some and to him as an individual in the nation.

for as we are individually capable, we shall make up our own mind, or into our own course of action, and vote for those men whom our own judgment and faith prompts us to believe are most sincere and able to preserve for us politically what we are striving to save in a military sense.

If we do not achieve this, then we have lost our battle—even if we win a war.
